About the authors

SafeConnect (trade name of Travel Services Ltd.) is an IT & consulting company serving the travel industry. We offer services in the area of virtual interlining. As part of our portfolio we carry out competitive data analysis aimed at helping online travel agencies to understand and manage their competitive position for both their traditional and virtual interlining products. A number of in-depth customized reports can be prepared for various markets, date ranges and routes. A very high level of detail can be achieved as a result of the proprietary software built for the purpose.

For more information you can visit our website www.safeconnect.pl and contact us by sending an email to contact@safeconnect.pl

Introduction

The present report provides a snapshot of the competitive position of online travel agencies (OTA) and airlines distributing their content via the metasearch engine Skyscanner.com.

We have analyzed approximately 360 routes split in two pools:

1. Flights between the most popular airports in Russia and the former Soviet republics sold on the Russian (RU) market.
2. Flights between the most popular airports in Europe, except Russia and the former Soviet republics sold on the United Kingdom (UK) market.

The first pool has been searched with Russian (RU) regional settings, the second pool has been searched with United Kingdom (UK) regional settings, therefore we have compared different pools of participating OTAs.

The authors have made every effort to use reliable information, but we make no representation that it is accurate and complete. In no event shall Travel Services Ltd. and its partners be liable for damages, expenses, loss of opportunity or profit caused by the use of content in this report.

Glossary

In this report we have used the following terms:

Itinerary: Flights or flight combinations returned by skyscanner.com based on (user) search

Offer: A price returned by a vendor for itinerary (there could be multiple offers per itinerary)

Market: A localized search environment in skyscanner.com for residents of a certain country

Vendor: Online travel agency (OTA) or airline distributing air fares via Skyscanner.com

Methodology

We created two pools (RU and UK) consisting of approximately 180 routes each. The routes in RU connect popular airports located in Russia and the former soviet countries. The routes in UK connect popular airports in Europe and European territories, excluding the countries taking part in the RU pool.

We have applied complex criteria in selecting the routes in order to achieve a balanced and representative sample. The routes include short and long haul flights. Between some of the airports direct air links exist, others are only accessible by connecting flights.

We searched for return flights taking place one month ahead from the date of search. The return date has been set to one week from arrival. The search was carried out in February 2019.

In terms of technology, we utilized proprietary developed software that produces analytical reports. For the purposes of the comparison we used the metasearch engine skyscanner.com and performed searches under the United Kingdom (UK) and Russia (RU) regional settings (markets). Only OTAs and airlines offering flights under these two markets have been considered. Offers containing direct point to point flights of Ryanair (IATA designator: FR) and offers by Skyscanner.com Mashups have been excluded from the results. Ryanair as an airline has been excluded from the list of vendors.

In order to identify virtual interlining flight offers, we have applied proprietary developed software that detect such fares. The algorithm does not count virtual connections, which are possible by traditional interlining agreements. It is important to note virtual combinations containing Ryanair (IATA designator: FR) appear in the results.

Details about the searches

The present report is based on the following searches conducted:

	searchdate	Flightdate	returndate	market	number of routes
1	2019-02-15	2019-03-20	2019-03-27	UK	184

Vendors statistics by price

In this section we analyze the routes based on price competitiveness. The colored vendors appear in both rankings.

Vendors offering the lowest price option

The table refers to the number of times a vendor had an offer for the cheapest itinerary. Note that, it does not necessarily mean that the vendor always quoted the absolute cheapest price, as for each result, there are multiple quotes by various vendors.

	Vendor RU	Itineraries	Percent	Vendor UK	Itineraries	Percent

Table 6 Vendors break-down per 10 cheapest options

Vendor by position in itinerary - first 10 itineraries sorted by price

The figures below show how many times (vertical Y axis) a vendor had an offer on a specific position in the itinerary ranking 1st to 10th (horizontal X axis):

Vendor by position in the same itinerary relative to the other vendors - first 10 positions for the first 20 itineraries in percents

This section refers to the ranking of a given vendor in the same itinerary compared to other vendors, sorted by price. The cheapest offer is in first place. The figure shows for what percentage of all offers (Y axis) a given vendor had an offer on a specific position (X axis). For example, visually in RU pool Aeroflot had only 1st position offers. In the UK pool Kiwi.com had either 1st or last positions but not many in the middle.
